NRW community,

Yesterday, Governor Kathy Hochul announced that she will lift the mask mandate for schools effective Wednesday, March 2, 2022. In alignment with the Governor's actions and in consultation with the Wayne County Department of Health, the North Rose-Wolcott Central School District will no longer require students and staff to wear masks in school beginning on Wednesday, March 2. Students and staff may continue to wear masks if they choose. The District will support all students and staff in making their own individual choices with regard to masking, and we ask that all members of our NRW community respect others' choices as well.

We encourage students and staff to continue practicing good hand hygiene, physical distancing, and other measures to mitigate the potential spread of COVID-19. Our maintenance department will also continue with increased sanitization practices in our buildings. Please continue to stay home from school when feeling ill or exhibiting possible symptoms of COVID-19.

Thank you for your continued support and cooperation.

Respectfully,

Michael Pullen
Superintendent of Schools
